

Greg Searle MBE

Olympic Gold Medallist

CSA CELEBRITY SPEAKERS

Greg Searle MBE is an Olympic Gold Medal winner who has worked as a C-Suite executive coach and consultant with organisations for 25 years to help improve their performance. Having won gold in Barcelona 1992, he returned to win Bronze in London 2012. He worked for Lane4 for 20 years and now supports organisations from the corporate and public sector including the NHS, charities, and sports such as the FA and the R&A.

"One of Britain's greatest rowers of all time"

In detail

After retiring from rowing in 2000 and during his 9-year break from the sport, Greg took to sailing, taking part in the America's Cup Challenger Series as a grinder - powering the winches that are used to hoist and trim sails on a boat, he kept fit by taking part in the London Marathon and London Triathlon, reaching the final of the BBC's Superstars series. But much to the delight of British rowing fans, the draw of a home Olympic games proved too much to resist for the 40-year-old, who came out of international retirement in 2009. Greg's coaching philosophy is based on a belief in people's potential. Having achieved World Class performance himself, Greg supports and challenges others to deliver high level and sustainable performance.
